In April 2016 Manchester eScholar was replaced by the University of Manchester’s new Research Information Management System, Pure. In the autumn the University’s research outputs will be available to search and browse via a new Research Portal. Until then the University’s full publication record can be accessed via a temporary portal and the old eScholar content is available to search and browse via this archive.

Critical Readings in Translation Studies

Access to files

- SUPPLEMENTARY-1.PDF (pdf)

Abstract

Critical Readings in Translation Studies is an integrated and structured set of readings that is prospective rather than retrospective in orientation. It opens up the field to innovative concepts and methods of research, and to voices and perspectives from a wide range of traditions. This collection provides students with a comprehensive overview of the latest developments in thinking about translation, both within and outside translation studies. Designed to be the most student-friendly volume available, this reader: • Covers all the main forms of translation: oral, written, literary, non-literary, scientific, religious, audiovisual and machine translation • Uses a thematic structure: topics covered include the politics and dynamics of representation, the positioning of translators and interpreters in institutional settings, issues of minority and cultural survival, and the impact of new media and technology • Incorporates key approaches to conceptualizing translation: from textual and philosophical to cultural and political • Includes core material from renowned scholars, but also innovative and less well-known work from scholars both in related disciplines and in the non-western world. Complete with full editorial support, including detailed, critical summaries of each of the readings, a set of follow-up questions for discussion and recommended further reading for each article, this is an essential resource for all students of translation studies. Readings from: Talal Asad, Mona Baker, Pascale Casanova, Eric Cazdyn, A.E.B Coldiron, Michael Cronin, Brad Davidson, Johan Heilbron, Theo Hermans, Moira Inghilleri, Hephzibah Israel, Marco Jacquemet, Alexandra Jaffe, Mohja Kahf, Indra Levy, Karin Littau, Ian Mason, Abé Mark Nornes,
The literature in translation studies has traditionally been preoccupied with elaborating various types of dichotomies and taxonomies, and to some extent much of it still is. This volume attempts to orient the discipline away from dichotomies and taxonomies as much as possible, while recognizing that some may be embedded within a sophisticated and enriching discourse that is worth engaging with. On the whole, the work represented here assumes, implicitly or explicitly, that human behaviour is too complex and too dynamic to be streamlined into stable sets of choices that can be tied to specific ... Documents Similar To Critical Readings in Translation Studies

Introduction. Skip carousel. carousel previous carousel next.